And from thy slender store two loaves alone to thee are left,
Sell one, and with the dole
Buy hyacinths to feed thy soul.*

Never before had issues of miscegenation, wife desertion, alcoholism, and gambling been the subject of a hit musical — one which continues to be revived to this day. Kern collaborated with many great lyricists including Oscar Hammerstein II, Johnny Mercer, P. G. Wodehouse, E.Y. (“Yip”) Harburg, Ira Gershwin, Jimmy McHugh, and Dorothy Fields and his songs won the Academy Award for Best Song in a Motion Picture twice. Singer Will McMillan and pianist Joe Reid find great pleasure in performing Kern classics including "Pick Yourself Up," "I Won't Dance," "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," "The Song Is You "Ol' Man River," "The Way You Look Tonight," "Bill," "I'm Old Fashioned," and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man."

Thursday, April 27, 3:00 PM Sacred Spaces Photography Exhibit, North Gallery and Community Room. From chapels at Massachusetts correctional institutions, to Our Lady of the Airways at Logan Airport in Boston, to the Hebrew Senior Life Synagogue in Roslindale, to the Muslim Prayer Room at MGH, sacred spaces exist as places of silence and prayer across the commonwealth. In medical centers, municipal buildings, military organizations, prisons and cemeteries, many of the sacred spaces have evolved over the years to reflect the changing nature of Boston itself. Sociologist Wendy Cadge, architectural historian Alice Friedman and photographer Randall Armor have started this project to find and document those sacred spaces." Join them for a fascinating conversation about what these spaces offer, literally and symbolically, to Bostonians and visitors in our daily lives. Refreshments will be served.

It is with great pleasure that we welcome back Art Historian Nancy Baker, who will talk about Gauguin and the School of Pont-Aven, 1886-1894. The language of art began to change dramatically when color stopped being subtle or natural in the 1880's. Color expressed an artist's feelings and helped him reveal the vibrations of the world as music does. The need to talk and share energy drew painters to Pont-Aven in Brittany where art colonies had flourished throughout the 19th century. No group was as well-known as the one that centered around the Post-impressionist painter, Paul Gauguin. See the Breton landscape through the eyes of Gauguin, Betrand, Serusier, Bonnard and others who painted both the land and the Celtic culture there since Gallic times Enjoy a fascinating chapter in art history.
